Seen, Heard and Told

By The Editor

The recently rejuvenated Grenada County Chamber of Commerce, with David Dubard as head and Mr. Herbert Allen as full-time secretary, has begun under auspicious circumstances.

All of us have the utmost confidence in David Dubard whom all of us have known all of his life; the people generally are inspired by the sincerity and integrity of Mr. Allen who has been with us just a few days. Speaking for myself, I believe in him one hundred percent.

The Grenada County Weekly dedicates itself to helping fulfill the motives of this newly rejuvenated body. Its space, its time and its energy will be devoted to helping this body become successful, and in upholding its officers.

Col. Henry Kahn, one of Mike Conner's disciples from Duck Hill, honored our den with a visit recently. When Col. Henry dies, he hopes to go to Mike Conner. As for myself, I prefer to go to Heaven.

Grenada muffed the ball when it failed to cooperate with the gentlemen seeking cucumber acreage here. Two hundred dollars, more or less, from cucumbers is preferable to fifteen or thirty from cotton.

Dear Hugh White: Mr. Allen is coming down to see you sometime soon. I recommend him to your kindly and thoughtful consideraton. He does not want you to give him a damn thing, but information. He is right down your alley with this Balance Agriculture with Industry stuff.

We have been requested to announce that all post offices, including those in Grenada county, will begin offering United States Defense Saving Bonds to the public on May 1.

Mrs. Charlie Winter, of Holcomb, is taking a six-bits treatment of the GCW for whatever ails her and Charlie.

As Mabel and I left for Biloxi early Thursday morning we heard with regret of the death of Mrs. Dick Smith. Funeral at home, and burial in Woodlawn cemetery Friday 10 a. m.

Mabel asked me to express to the friends who sent flowers and to those who attended the funeral of her sister in Water Valley, as well as to those who have been so kind during the sister's long illness, her heartfelt thanks.

We have been waiting to get a miller on our list a long time. Eureka, we have found her Mrs. Mary H. Miller of New Orleans, an aunt of grandmaw Gloria Williams.

We believe that Congress, long dormant on the matter, is preparing to do something about the strike situation. The welfare of the whole people is paramount to that of a few disgruntled strikers.

Luna Butler will be looking for his name in the paper for having renewed. Here it is, and good wishes to the hard-worker of Holcomb.

Grenada Lions Pass Resolutions

On April 18, the Lions of Grenada passed two important resolutions, viz: that The President and Congress enact such legislation as will forbid strikes, walk-outs and other impediments in the continuity of production of national defense materials; and that the President remove from office the present Secretary of Labor, Miss (Mrs.) Frances Perkins.

Both resolutions were signed by J. C. Hathorn, president, and C. S. Liles, secretary.

Congressman Rankin Writes Briscoe

Mr. C. W. Briscoe who has been much interested in the erection of a municipal plant here has received the following letter from Congressman John E. Rankin:

"Please let me know how you are getting along in your fight for a municipal plant in Grenada.

"With kindest regards and very best wishes for your success, etc."

The letter was dated April 17, 1941.

Mrs. Hester B. Bridgers Buried Here Saturday

Death ended the long suffering of Mrs. Hester Bloodworth Bridgers, widow of the late Victor A. Bridgers, at her country home in the northwestern part of the county at 6 p. m. Friday, April 18, 1941.

She was born in District Four of Grenada county and was the daughter of the late Harmon Bloodworth and Mrs. Fannie Ellett Bloodworth, both of whom represented the best blood which came into this county in the early days. In February, 1900, she and Mr. V. A. Bridgers were married. She spent her life in the plantation home which Mr. Bridgers provided for her. She was a graduate of the Iuka Noram School at Iuka, Mississippi and, until her marriage, was a teacher by profession. She was a staunch member of the Presbyterian church. Unpretentiously she attended to the household duties and the duties attendant upon the mistress of a large plantation, and in the rearing of her only child, Miss Aline Bridgers. To her less fortunate neighbors and to the colored tenants, she was often an angel of mercy, and these recipients of her many benefactions adored her.

Funeral services were conducted in the Bridgers country home by Rev. C. A. Pharr, pastor of the Presbyterian church and interment was had beside the grave of her deceased husband, who died in June, 1934, in Woodlawn Memorial Park in Grenada. Messrs. Bradford Dye, Pate Brown, Avent McElwrath, Rice Pressgrove, Fred Spain, Hamilton Graves, Dave Dogan and Lewis Weir served as pallbearers.

Surviving her are one daughter, Miss Aline Bridgers, assistant Circuit Clerk of Grenada county; two brothers, Joe Bloodworth and Andrew (Pitt) Bloodworth, of Holcomb and two sisters, Miss Mary Bloodworth and Mrs. Blanche Payne.

To the sorrowful ones, we extend our sincere sympathy.

The Grenada Churches

By HERBERT B. ALLEN

EDITOR'S NOTE: Under this head we plan to present weekly an article written by Herbert B. Allen concerning one of the churches in Grenada, its minister and something about the sermon preached at the 11 o'clock service the preceding week.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

There is a rugged grandeur in old Scotland, and a distinction to the rugged character of the sons and the daughters of Scotland, that is markedly in evidence in all Scotland institutions.

No Scotch institution is so familiar to Americans as the grand old Presbyterian Church. All of the truly splendid characteristics so indelibly impressed upon that denomination by some of the world's most ardent, and most intellectual Christians, are in evidence in the Grenada Presbyterian Church.

It was our good fortune to be present and to participate in the majestic solemnity of the Communion service there last Sunday. The able, and eloquent, Reverend C. A. Pharr is admirably in the tradition of the men who serve the Young Man of Galilee in that denomination.

Speaking from the beloved fourteenth chapter of John, the text was timely and appropriate, following a week of agitating and disturbing news, at home and abroad—"Let not your heart be troubled." What a world of relief and comfort to the harried heart and mind are encompassed in this wonderful words.

Mr. Pharr emphasized our human proneness to forget the promises of the Master, at a time when we are most in need of reassurance in our daily lives. "It is the life we lead, day after day, that tells the story of our hearts; and it is the life we live that proves, or disproves, our love for Him," he declared.

He condemned the tendency to take refuge behind the mere formalism of a creed; and urged the manifestation of our faith, and our Christian qualities, in action toward our fellow men.

The power of example is a very forceful influence. And may we congratulate the Presbyterians of Grenada in having Mr. Pharr, a Christian gentleman—and a man of first rate ability.

I told little Henry Ray's little wife that she and Henry should do like my bride and I did, live together in Pineville, war or no war. She said I had something there.

Farm Bureau Program At Kraft Place Saturday

George F. Kraft has opened his farm, where soil experiments are being extensively conducted, his modern dairy and his fine barn to members of the Grenada Farm Bureau and other interested people, both farmers and others, for an afternoon program and an old fashioned barn dance Saturday afternoon and night, April 26th.

From 2 until 4 p. m. the visitors will be invited to view the results of winter planting of soil-building crops, terracing, dairy cattle, poultry and other farm products. About four p. m. motion pictures showing modern cattle farms, methods of feeding and raising cattle and so on will be shown.

Feature speakers of the occasion will be Mr. Nelson Aldrich, president of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation; E. H. White head of extension work in the state and Mr. Herbert B. Allen, secretary of the Grenada County Chamber of Commerce.

Supper served by the girls of the 4-H clubs will be enjoyed at 6. This promises to be well attended.

An old fashioned barn dance will be enjoyed in the loft of the modern barn erected by the Kraft interests. There will be no charges.

Barwin Business Meeting Well Attended

A meeting called by the Grenada County Chamber of Commerce Friday night last was well attended both by the businessmen of the community as well as by the county and city officials and most, if not all of the pastors of the city. The purpose of this meeting was to let Grenada people further become acquainted with the new secretary of the Grenada Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Herbert B. Allen.

Mr. Allen's remarks were preceded by short talks by Mr. Oliver, who made it clear that it was imperative that Grenada do something to prepare itself for the business shock which will inevitably follow the close of the war, irrespective of the identity of the winner; by Mr. Paschal of Grenada Implement Company, and by Mr. Frank Evans of the Western Auto Associate Store.

Mr. David Young Dubard, the president of the Chamber of Commerce, acting as master of ceremonies next introduced the speaker, Mr. Allen, who, by his logical presentation of facts and figures, and by stating the object of his acceptance of this post, and by the unanswerable sincerity and dignity of speech and manner, convinced those who heard him that he is not only cognizant of the need of constructive service and of the need of cooperation of all Grenada elements, but that, with such cooperative help, he proposes to help do something about the situation. He made no extravagant claims of his ability to snatch rabbits out of the hat. He claimed no infallibility of judgment, but he did claim that he would devote from sixteen to twenty-four hours of his time and energy to the promotion of Grenada's growth and Grenada's well being. He urged that those having problems that he might help solve come to him; he sought the friendship, help and good will of all Grenada people.

He is a native of the Province of Ontario, Canada, a naturalized citizen of the United States and a Southerner and a Mississippian by choice. He has held commissions both in the American army and in the British army. He is known and freely acknowledged himself as a liberal writer, and has been correspondent for and editorial writer of many of the metropolitan newspapers in the North and East. In his search for knowledge he has traveled over the entire world, there being hardly a port or a country with which he is not intimately familiar. It is hard to realize that a man who recently celebrated his 45th birthday could have crowded into such a brief period so many experiences.

His wife, nee Miss Esther Ault, of Hot Springs, and recently a second lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps, will soon join him.

Since he has had that grandbaby, they can hardly keep Homer Williams at home. He has become a regular gadabout.

Mrs. Mary Erikson Glenn Died Monday

Mrs. Mary Erikson Glenn died in the home of her sister, Mrs. W. W. Whitaker at 11:30 p. m. Monday, April 21, 1941 after an illness following a paralysis stroke over six years ago. Following the death of her husband, the late Mr. William J. Glenn, in Talent, Oregon, in the autumn of 1939, she came to Water Valley, the home of her parents, but for the past year has made her home in Grenada with the Whitakers.

She was born in Bolivar, Tennessee on February 5, 1873, and as a small girl moved to Water Valley with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Erikson in the late '70's. She taught in the Water Valley schools, and in 1904 married Rev. William Stokes, Rector of the Church of The Nativity in Oak Cliff, Dallas, Texas. Rev. Stokes was rector of the Church of the Nativity at Water Valley prior to his acceptance to the call at Dallas. After his death she taught in the Dallas schools, then received a commission in Alaska, where she met and married in 1910 Mr. William J. Glenn, a gold miner. Her life in Alaska was a most interesting one and she delighted to talk with friends of her interesting experiences there.

She is survived by three brothers, Oscar, Victor and Rudolph Erikson and three sisters, Mesdames Whyte Whitaker, and Charles Allen and Miss Lula Erikson.

Services were conducted by Rev. C. S. Liles in the Water Valley Episcopal Church Tuesday afternoon, after which interment was had in the cemetery in Water Valley.

Herbert B. Allen Addresses People At High School

On Monday night, in the High School auditorium, Herbert B. Allen, Secretary of the Grenada County Chamber of Commerce, addressed the citizens of Grenada on the topic, "The World and Grenada." A large and appreciative audience listened to an account of the series of events which has given affairs, happening at great distances, a vital bearing on the lives of Grenadians.

Professor John Rundle commented briefly, and in complimentary terms, upon the ideals and objectives of Mr. Allen, and then introduced Mr. David Dubard, President of the Chamber of Commerce. Summarizing in detail the conditions which resulted in the organization of the new Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Dubard solicited the whole hearted support of Grenadians in promoting the best interests of this county, and this community. His appeal was enthusiastically received.

Mr. Allen outlined the two divisions into which his efforts would be divided: those directed toward bringing industry into Grenada—and those directed toward the creation of public opinion more in accord with the demands of the present time.

The South is traditionally accustomed to a certain trend of thought, and a certain mode of life. These have served the old times, the old culture, and the old economy. But the pressure of world convulsions, the collapse of prices for the traditional money crops, the prospective disappearance of our forests, compel a drastic readjustment both in thought, attitude, and action.

The sun, rain, and soil of Mississippi had long produced wealth in this state. But wealth must now be produced in the form of manufactured goods—in other words we must create pay rolls. A new intellectual conception of our essential needs and requirements must precede the transition from an exclusively agricultural economy, to an economy more dependent upon industry than upon agriculture.

In a machine age, Mississippi was relatively machineless. And in a sensationally changing world, thought was virtually static, a condition which could not long prevail without precipitating grave consequences upon Mississippi.

New conditions, and new times, require the application of new patterns of thought—new concepts of the present and the future. The old order had definitely passed. It had served its function, and none too well at the best. The old traditions, if continued, could lead only to ruination eventually.

Old channels of thought (or long absence of any creative thought whatever) were now a ball and chain on the evolution of progress—and could only be maintained, in an area of heavily increasing taxation, at prohibitive expense to each and every Mississippian.

Mr. Allen recalled the sacrifices of the generation that fought the War for Southern Independence. If their descendants would make some commensurate sacrifice of time and money, in a patriotic effort to readjust the economy and psychology of the South, a new order, infinitely superior to anything which has ever prevailed in Dixie, would arise from the chaos of the present.

Memphis Businessmen Visit Grenada

Tuesday afternoon Grenada was visited by a cheerful and animated caravan of Memphians, touring the delta to extend a cordial invitation to Grenada citizens to visit the Cotton Carnival in Memphis.

Our genial Mayor, Robert W. Sharp, extended the greetingsc of Grenada, over a portable microphone, set up by the caravan in the Public Square. In appreciation the Memphians presented the mayor with a beautiful medallion.

The chairman of the caravan, several members of his company, and three Cotton Queens made brief talks to the assembled citizens.

Our guests expressed especial appreciation of the Grenada High School Band, and hoped to have the band in the parade during the Caranival.

It may be of interest to Grenadians to learn that the beauty and attractiveness of the drum majorettes in Grenada's fine band was warmly admired by the Memphis beauties.

20TH CENTURY CLUB HONORS GRAND MOTHERS AT FINAL MEETING OF THE CLUB'S SPRING ACTIVITIES

A charming affair in Grenada social circle was the tea and program staged on Tuesday afternoon, April 15th between the hours of 3:30 and 5 o'clock honoring the grandmothers of Grenada. Mrs. J. K. Avent, President, presided throughout the afternoon.

As the guests arrived, accompanied by the Twentieth Century Club members who invited them to tea, a beautiful corsage was pinned on the shoulder of each by those assisting the president with the reception of guests.

Each grandmother was escorted to a beautifully arranged table where they were served lunch and cookies by six young ladies attired in antibellum costumes of exquisite design. The refreshment table had lovely centerpiece, perfectly blended lavender stocks and lilacs, interspersed by clusters of white lilacs. Preceding the program Miss Mabel Walker played old fashioned piano selections. Clustered about the room in which the program was given, were lovely bouquets of iris, lavender and purple stocks, lilacs and Wisteria.

The program was as follows:

The girls of yesterday and today—Mrs. J. C. Prose.

The charming girls representing the two eras were Miss Louise Avent as the old fashion girl, attired in a lovely hoop skirt, right bodice dress, a dress of charm and most becoming to lovely Louise Avent.

The modern girl, Miss Anne Odom, attired in a chic evening dress, was very lovely indeed. This scene showed the girls as if they were pictures, each sitting on the stage in large gilt edge frames. They "came to life" and stepped from their "frames" during the dancing of the minuet by Joyce Gunter and Olive Semmes. Later by Betty Gale Thomas, doing a modern tap dance and singing, "There'll be Some Changes Made."

Of great interest and appeal was the impromptu programme by the great-grandmothers present. Mrs. R. L. Vandiver supervised the following program:

Briscoe Goes Further Into Power Situation

Well folks, here I am again, the absence of my articles does not mean that we have been idle for we haven't in the least, we almost got the survey and will in a short time so keep a stiff upper and it won't be long now, we are and will continue to work and work hard until we will have accomplished our coveted project and we need your help and cooperation in every way, we have the greatest opportunity offered Grenada in the form of a light and power plant as to savings an earning over a shorter period than any other project that we have at present and why pass this up when it means so much to the city, the community and we as inlividuals, our light bill and taxes reduced in the end and a vast asset to the City of Grenada.

By the way, I had about forgotten the possibility of you collecting your 6 percent interest from the power company on your deposit you have on your meter: I have a deposit of $25.00 on three meters and on October 13th, 1939 I collected from the local office of the Mississippi Power & Light Co. the sum of $13.48 as my 6 percent interest on this deposit and did not turn in my deposit receipts to them, these receipts are still in my hands and the $25.00 deposit is still with them accumulating more 6 percent interest to be collected later, they seem to be glad to pay this interest and I thought you might be interested in knowing that your deposit also bears a 6 percent interest as mine does, the power company seems to have records of all deposits, dates of deposits and the amount so it would be no trouble to you to drop in and collect, providing you are interested, and your collecting this interest will not effect your deposit, it did not effect mine, my deposit is still there with them. The following is copied from Bulletin No. 118, Public Ownership League of America:

"Over a hundred cities in the United States owning their utilities pay all their local city expenses out of the surplus earnings and are tax-free so far as local city expenses are concerned."

"In the last six years more than 656 new municipal plants were established." "There are 316 municipally owned electric light plants in the United States that have no outstanding indebtedness, all paid for out of earnings."

"Hawarden, Iowa, (Pop. 2,459) has an average rate of 2.6 cents per KWH, paid $17,956 in taxes, donations, etc. and still earn a gross profit of $18,660.00 in 1938-39."

"Memphis, Tenn. owns its electric light and power plant, buys its current wholesale of the TVA, reduced rates 37 percent, saved its citizens $2,250,000.00 the first year, paid all cost of operation, interest and amortization, $215,000.00 a year taxes, and still earned a net profit of $1,135,000.00 in 1940."

"Each year, for the last seven years, the municipally owned light and power plant of Wyandotte, Mich., gave its customers a refund on their light and power bills amounting to a dividend of $45,000.00. This makes the total dividends paid during the last seven years $315,000.00."

LOCAL BOY IN NATIONAL PAPER

The Piggly Wiggly Turnstile, National newspaper for Piggly Wiggly Stores carries this report concerning a local boy, Harris Ray Whitten, employed as clerk at S. S. Chapman's Piggly Wiggly Store, Grenada:

"This young man has endeavored, without success so far to join the armed forces of the United States. Difficulty after difficulty has prevented his enlistment in the army. Harris was among the first to volunteer with National Guard last October, but did not meet the requirements. Next he tried to join the regular army and did not pass the first test, however he later failed to qualify at Memphis and consequently returned to his job. At present he is trying to enlist for active duty with the parachute troops at Ft. Benning, Ga. If he fails at this, he plans to serve in some capacity if it takes the next 10 years."

When it comes to young looking grandmaws, Mary McRee by no means is at the tail end of the procession.

With The County Agent

The Farm Bureau program to be held on the farm of Mr. George Kraft on April 26 will be "Bureau Day" for Grenada County farmers in recent years. The Farm Bureau Committee in charge of the program for the farmers and business men of this section to study winter cover crops, pasture, terracing, dairy cattle and poultry in the afternoon. During the evening livestock and diversified farm motion pictures will be shown. The program will close with an "Old Fashioned" Barn Dance in the new, modern barn.

Forty miles of Rural Electric lines were accepted by the Natchez Trace Electric Power Association at Houston, Miss. The lines will serve the farmers in Beats 2 and 3. The Rural Electrification Committee presenting the project were George Chamberlain, Granville Ligon, Louis Martin, Buck Wright and Prof. A. E. McGahey. It is expected that the lines will be constructed this summer or fall.

George Chamberlain and Guy James had to have the assistance of their county agent and all of their neighbors to stop a forest fire this week.

Peril At Our Door

America is going to meet the supreme test before this war is over. An egotistical people have imagined that there will be no shots unless we shoot first. Actually the leaders in Washington have been telling the people that they are going to do everything short of war as though they alone determined the issues of peace or war. If the people whom we are furnishing munitions of war fail, or whenever these munitions of war that we are furnishing to them make them more hurtful to the Axis powers than our formal entry into the war, which would compel us to divert a large part of our productive energy to our own defense, is there anyone with little enough gumption not to know that we will then be attacked? Have anyone little enough sense not to realize that?

We are dealing with a difficult situation. It is absolutely essential that this country, which is yet weak inside, have the benefit of the solidifying influence of consciousness of a common danger if we are to win. Our leaders in Washington are the watchmen on the tower. Their highest duty to the people of America is not to lead them blindly and unprepared into this situation.

If the American people really knew the truth about this thing, there would be no more strikes in America. The factories would be opened to every honest American willing to help prepare this Nation, in order that it might not be attacked; or, if attacked, that our boys might have all that a loyal, patriotic citizenship could give them with which to protect themselves and to defend the opportunity of this Nation to remain free and great. There are men and women in those factories just as patriotic as you are. If they realize their situation and their danger, they would tear apart the men who stand between them and the chance to put effective guns in the hands of their sons upon whose bodies we have put on uniforms of this Nation.

France broke to pieces inside or it would never have been broken by the German shock. America is weak inside of these strikes would not be happening. They would not be permitted. Wars are today won in factories. Let nobody forget that. Workmen in the factories of France were winning the war for Germany before the Germans struck the Maginot line.

People should read ex-Ambassador Bullitt's testimony which showed how France was first destroyed from within, noting the similarity between what did happen in France and what is happening here. If anything can warn an indifferent, sleeping American and give American people a sense of the greatest responsibility that ever challenged a generation since time began, Mr. Bullitt's testimony should warn America.

We wonder about France. We say, "How could the French people have done the thing they did, considering their circumstances?" American statesmen and American people, let it not happen that when the history of this period is being written it will be said, "How could America have done as it did, even with the warning of France right before it?" We are absolutely repeating the mistakes that led to the downfall of France.

Bicycle Riders

We have no desire to interfere with the pleasure of youthful bicycle riders so long as their riding does not imperil the lives of innocent pedestrians, not place their own lives in jeapardy.

We do believe, however that the practice of delivery boys and other bicycle riders using the sidewalks, especially in the crowded sections of the city, should be discontinued. We cannot say from actual knowledge that delivery boys use all the uptown streets for riding their bicycles, but we do know that it is a common practice on the East side of Green Street, and that we ourselves have many times barely averted collision with bicycle riders. The result of the collision of an elderly person with a fast moving bicycle might prove disastrous.

Then, too, we have noted that, while automobile drivers scrupulously obey the red and green lights, the bicycle riders often ignore them. A collision of a bicycle with a car could result only in disaster to the bicycle and its rider.

Our City Marshal we believe, has carried out more closely his pre-election promises than any other officer known, and though he promised nothing concerning bicycle riding, we respectfully suggest to him and to the members of his force that the practice of using sidewalks for bicycle riding be discontinued before some tragedy occurs.

Reopening An Old Subject

Playing on an old string, we urge merchants and their employees to leave their cars at home on Saturdays, if not on other days, and permit the space their cars occupy in the business section to be used by the visitors to Grenada. The exercise entailed by the two—or ten block walk to your place of business will be beneficial from a health viewpoint, and God knows the space that YOU R cars occupy will help relieve the congestion in our limited business section.

Our business men spent countless dollars to urge people to come to Grenada to trade. When they come, they find the choice parking spaces preempted by cars belonging to the "host." Not one single businessman would invite a guest to his home for a meal, and, upon the guest's arrival, tell him that all the chairs in the living room were occupied by members of the family, and if the guest, to find a seat, must go to the kitchen and shoot a soub boy. Yet, about what happens to the "guests of Grenada"—the out-of-town buyers who have to park their cars on Rabbit Track or down near the Peavine railroad, far from the scene of his buying spree.

The local parking problem here could be almost solved if merchants and their clerks would leave their cars at home, particularlye on Saturdays, and if the "parkers and lookers," who preempt choice parking spaces and sit there endlessly to view the passing throug would walk to town.

Let's have a LEAVE YOUR CAR AT HOME next Saturday, and see the difference.

Rest Room For Colored Women

One of the greatest needs of the city of Grenada is an decent rest room for use of colored women.

Between sixty and seventy percent of our people are negroes. The percentage runs higher than that in the rural areas—the area from which comes the colored women who need such facilities when they are in town.

Let the average merchant, paricularly the one who carrys medium priced goods, analyze the source of his sales on Saturdays, and he will tell you that a great amount of these sales comes from colored women.

The slave ships, notorious for their unsanitary facilities, which brought the forparents of the colored people from Africa were little less sanitary than the inadequate facilities that Grenada offers its colored women who come here to trade.

We believe that some woman's club of Grenada, seeking some worthwhile project to improve The City Beautiful, could find no more important undertaking than that of seeing that the rural colored women of Grenada have decent sanitary facilities.

Happy Birthday, Adolf?

Millions of mothers and fathers fear they have raised sons to be thrown into murderous maws of war because of you. What's there to make you happy about that?

A nation that once could hold up its head, bloody out unbowed, among other nations whose citizens thought it got a raw deal, now is rated as the mad dog of the world. What's there to make you happy about that?

A civilization that was painfully, slowly, struggling toward right, now yanked back toward the darkness of barbarism. What's there to make you happy about that?

Millions of people who enjoyed the love of the world, who contributed Christmas, Goethe, Mendelssohn and Wagner to happiness and art, and who now have to stand sponsor for Joe Geebbels. What's there to make you happy about that?

Countries that were working their ways back to security based on mutual understanding and cooperation of all residents, now apprehensive with hatred. What can make you so happy about that?

Families torn aside by spies and lies. What can make you so happy about that?

A country that once inspired the whole world with the wholesome work of its individuals now concerted by force to a monster that devours the free citizen. What can make you so happy about that

Babies who had nothing to say about the God they were born to worship, frozen, starved, taken from their parents—if their parents were unfortunate enough to stay alive. Can you call yourself happy because of them?

Hoodlums, perverts, cowardly bullies, enforcing mad villainy upon a majority of innate decency. Can you call yourself happy because of them.

Concentration camps filled with people who couldn't fight back, or who were too true to their consciences to call you God Almighty. Can you call yourself happy because of them?

Experimenting with murder in Spain, with espionage in the Americas, and with a weak and willing cash-and-carry old man in England. Anything to make you happy there?

Killing the gaiety that was once Vienna, snatching the hopeful business that once was Bohemia. Anything to make you happy there

Hiding up the hills; guarded against assassination when you venture out, the prey of worries and nightmares when you stay in. Anything to make you happy there?

A happy birthday to you, wished by people in frightened slavery, by young men and women who are expected to breed little ones for butchery, by goosestepping children who don't know they are supposed to play for fun. If that's your idea of a happy birthday Adolf Hitler, you can have it.—Publishers' Auxiliary.

UNDER THE OLD MAGNOLIA TREE

With Herbert B. Allen

ARE YOU FROM DIXIE?

Scattered over the Southland are several memorials to the men and women of the Confederacy which are works of art reflecting great credit on the communities in which they are located.

One of these is the beautiful memorial to the Womanhood of the Confederacy which stands before the state capitol in Jackson. Its attractiveness is enhanced by the moving inscriptions written by Jafferson Davis, in which he pays eloquent tribute to the mothers, wives, and sisters of the soldiers of the South.

We have visit Little Rock without walking over the lovely lawn of the capitol grounds there and standing reverently before the memorial to the soldiers of our sister state of Arkansas.

We have seen the memorial to the immortal Kentuckian, Abraham Lincoln, in Washington: the noble tomb of Grant in New York City; the magnificent group memorializing the armies of Washington, in Princeton, New Jersey; the Cenotaph in London; and impressive monuments in Paris and Berlin to the great of European nations.

They range in style from the classic simplicity to be seen at the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington, Virginia, to the more elaborate sculptored groups at Princeton, New Jersey. Without exception they are marvelous examples of creative art—and express a dignity commensurate with the characters and the events which they immortalize.

But to our mind, the Little Rock memorial is the most appealing to the heart, the most stirring to our emotions—the most eloquent expression of a great artist's conception of a great cause, that we have been privileged to see.

The bronze figure of a young Arkansas soldier stands erect, clasping to his heart the furled flag of the Confederacy. Above him a feminine figure representing Peace holds aloft a laurel wreath, signifying the termination of the War for Southern Independence.

The name of the Parisian sculptor is inscribed thereon, and one instinctively pays a silent tribute to his magnificent conception, and fine execution, of his art. But it is of the inscription on the supporting base with which we are concerned at the moment.

There are, in the English language an abundance of passages of superlative beauty. Many of the most familiar date back to our classics. In the King James version of the Bible, in the works of Milton, and in the plays of Shakespeare, we find many cherished examples of grandeur in the compelling power, and in the exquisite expression, of profound thought.

On this Arkansas memorial is engraved such an expression of Christian nobility, such magnanimous spirit, such profound insight and comprehension, that I commend it to you as a magnificent example of modern English. On one sentence in particular we wish to comment::

"Arkansas remembers the faithfulness of her sons, and commends their example to future generations."

Fourteen words. But what a world of meaning may be read into those fourteen words!

What was the essence of the qualities which distinguished the sons of the Confederacy? Was it personal bravery? Was it that gallantry in action which characterized their military exploits Truly these were manifestations of the very finest qualities evinced in military valor.

But what makes a valiant soldier? Is it the cut of his uniform; the quality of his arms and ammunition; the precision of his drill; or the excellence of his organization? On such qualifications the Confederate armies must surely have made a most sorry showing.

Many Southern soldiers never had a uniform on. A Brigadier considered himself lucky to have his trousers intact. Their arms were a spectacle to behold—just examiae them in a Southern museum! Their drill was sometimes conspicuous by its absence.

With vastly inferior equipment, a pitiful lack of even the elemental equipment deemed indispensable to armies, the great leaders of the boys in Gray achieved records in military history which are not dependent upon the sympathetic interpretation of Southern historians for immortality.

In the military colleges of the world the achievements of the Confederate armies are studied in great detail and with unstinted admiration. Why?

Because the rank and file of the Confederate army was animated by an indomitable SPIRIT! It was animated by a spirit which rendered personal sacrifice in the total sense of self abnegation. It was actuated by the spirit of determination to sacrifice all of the things nearest and dearest to a man's heart, in the interest of his family and his friends. "Greater love hath no man than this."

Today the Southland once again confrots serious economic conditions. In common with the world, we move toward another crisis in our affairs. It is a crisis unsought by us, or by our neighbors—nevertheless it is made inevitable by the forces of iniquity, of avarice, of destruction, and of hatred, in the hearts and minds of men in remote countries.

Here in the South, we do not wish to be entangled in slavery in the personal, political, economic, or spiritual sense. We do not wish to sacrifice any degree of our freedom of action, in consequence of vast movements abroad which have thrown the globe into turmoil and strife.

But these convulsions threaten us with conditions which gravely affect the lives of every single individual in Mississippi. Our already too low standards of living are actually in jeopardy—and we cannot afford to travel in reverse! It is too expensive to all concerned.

To remedy matters we must create new sources of income. We must radically alter our traditional modes of earning a living. But have we become slave to traditional occupations? Are we already enslaved within the bonds of traditional modes of thought or lack of thoughts?

Shall we hide our heads in Mississippi's clay, and gamble with our own welfare, and the welfare of those dependent upon our best judgment, on the vain hope that some panacea may miraculously appear from a providential source?

Or shall we face realities with unflinching courage, quiet fortitude and the firm determination and face the facts with clear vision and open mind?

This is the land of the honored tradition. Let us live up to our tradition my friends. And let it be the tradition of the valiant SPIRIT. Let us honor the Old South, and let us take to heart, and to mind, the injunction of the most gallant generation that ever did, or ever will, grace the Southland.

By the shades of Omar, let us come out of the wilderness of talking, and writing, in terms of abstract generalities and then relaxing in the somnolent comfort of our easy chairs. If we are to live in the shade of Southern tradition, let it be in the shade of the GREAT TRADITION! Let us fight, and strive, and sacrifice as our forefathers did. Let us have a cause, and a worthy one. Let us do something while we have something to do something with!

It is time that we, here in Mississippi, did something definite and concrete to prove ourselves worthy of the GREAT TRADITION. It is time to do some honest soul searching. Have we done anything that is spiritually worthy of our generation? Are we so wedded to our material assets that we cannot see the woods for trees?

Lee, Stuart, Stonewall and the boys, Lived in the GREAT TRADITION: That spirit manifested now— Would alter our condition.

Recently a fellow scribe, in a Mississippi journal, slyly complimented us by alluding to us as a wind jammer. Having had the good fortune to have spent many happy days on Byron's deep and dark blue ocean, we fully appreciated the subtle compliment. For sailors always refer to the good old wind jammers in kindly vein.

Of course my friend was perfectly right. One of the most useful functions of friendship is the privilege our friends have of expressing constructive criticism. We recall, with gratitude, the thoughtfulness of many men who have taken the trouble to express opinions of us, and of our work, many of which were by no means flattering.

One of our favorite verses contains the shrewd observation of the Scotch genius, Robert Burns—

Would to God the gift He'd give us, To see ourselves as others see us.

We strive earnestly to keep abreast of events in a broad field of interests. Inevitably, we commit blunders, and err in our judgment, in interpreting events and conditions. But we strive earnestly to seek the truth as it appears to a liberal mind. And we earnestly appreciate those who take the time and trouble to point out the error of our ways.

We hold no illusions as to our limitations. These were pointed out to us by a famous New York editor nearly twenty years ago—and in a candid fashion that left nothing to our sensitive imagination. But it was a favor, and we many times expressed our deep gratitude to that great editorial writer, since gone to his reward.

Those persons who pay enough attention to our work to comment upon it are remembered with genuine appreciation—whether they agree, or disagree, with our methods, or our opinions and actions.

The boys who can't take with a grin,
Their fellow writers' jibes;
Are too thin skinned to linger in
The brotherhood of scribes.

Seen, Heard and Told By The Editor

Dr. Avent looks right nice in his new hat. Unless this fine surgeon and fine citizen slows down, as he advises his patients to slow down, he will be an old man twenty years before his time. He is a bundle of indefatiguable energy. He is too valuable a man to Grenada unnecessarily to burden him with duties that others can perform.

Spurgeon Burk carefully set the trap on the path to Douglass Anderson's path to the spring, baited it with a copy of the GCW and caught him.

On her recent visit to Grenada, Mrs. Erle Johnston did not neglect to renew her subscription to the GCW.

We suggest that, at its next meeting, the American Legion post pass resolutions commending Walter Winchell for his many exposes of un-American activities. This suggestion is made at the sugestion of Ward Alexander.

Please pay your subscription without having us dun you.

The flowers in the four corners of our public square park certainly are a great addition to the attractiveness of Grenada. The ladies whose loving hands made this beautification possible are to be congratulated.

Grenada needs: some industry that will take care of the people now on WPA; for, obviously, the WPA cannot and will not last forever.

Grenada needs: sanitary toilet facilities for the country colored women who come here to trade.

As for us, we believe 100 percent in Herbert B. Allen's sincerity, honesty and ability.

Joe Hendricks who, with Brandy Morris' counsel, put a razor edge on our paper cutter knife has been added to our list, as has the counsellor, Brandy himself. It is the best job of sharpening we ever saw.

Grenada needs: its merchants and clerks to leave their cars at home on Saturdays, if not on all days.

Remember Daylight Saving Time—the biggest fool thing ever started in America—starts this week.

In our opinion, Grenada suffered a great loss in prestige when economic, or other conditions, permitted the removal of WGRM to Greenwood. The word "This is WGRM at Grenada, the only broadcasting station in North Mississippi" dinned eternally into the ears of th people of North Mississippi was the best and cheapest advertisement Grenada ever received.

He who opposes the radio is to be likened to the stage coach owner who railed at the coming of the steam locomotive, or to the hand weaver who railed at the invention of the loom.

J. P. Britt, who has been on probation since January got on the real list Saturday, due to one of Uncle Sam's fine parity checks.

To tell the truth, we do not even want to have 80 percent of the homes of the county on our list. That's too many papers to fold by hand.

The stork had a little recession in business this week, but he is merely backing up for a prodigious effort in the immediate future. From the number of girl babies, it looks like after all we are not going to war.

Our son, Corpral Whitaker, the author of one of our most read columns will be home about May 5th. He appears to like army life all right.

MISSISSIPPI MAYOR

Says:

"Beer is now available in this city and county in surroundings that are steadily becoming increasingly WHOLESOME . . ."

Hon. Frank K. Hughes, Mayor of Corinth, and one of northeast Mississippi's most progressive business men and civic leaders, in a recent comment concerning the work of the Brewers and Missisippi Beer Ditributors Committee, said:

"It has been a revelation to me to see the results obtained by your committee through its Clean Up or Close Up Program.

"The attitude of the retailers of beer in this area who have, with two exceptions, cooperated fully in your program, is proof that an industry can control itself effectively if it adopts an intelligent plan in the public interest and then enforces the plan without fear or favor.

"You have done this and your promptness in shutting off the supply of beer to the 'two exceptions,' together with the beneficial results obtained in Corinth and Alcorn County by your entire plan, has scored one-hundred per cent on your work.

"Beer is now available in this city and county in surroundings that are steadily becoming increasingly wholesome and I commend you for your constructive contributions to law-enforcement and decency."

Through the cooperation of city officials, like Mayor Hughes, law-enforcement officers and the thinking public — Beer — a beverage of moderation — made from wholesome American farm products under rigid tests for purity and quality — is increasingly available to you in WHOLESOME surroundings.

You can help protect these important benefits by patronizing the wholesome, law-abiding retail beer outlets in your community.

CHAPEL

The chapel program was opened by singing several songs under Miss Donaldson's direction. In order to advertise the Senior Play, "Trouble In Paradise" Billy Semmes, John Keeton, Tommie Houston, and Charlie Kenwright acted out a scene taken from the play.

For the Scripture Mr. Ruffelle read part of the story of the Prodigal Son then followed it by a story that illustrates the youth of this modern age, and closed chapel with a prayer.

$2,200,000 for Telephone Expansion

Nearly $2,200,000 will be spent this year in Mississippi by Southern Bell for constructing, reconstructing and adapting telephone facilities to meet governmental and other telephone needs of the state.

More than 600,000 men in the nation's armed forces will be trained in the South. Of these more than 56,000 will be located in Mississippi.

To care for these men there will be 71 military camps and establishments in the South.

Necessary switchboards, numerous other equipment, and many miles of telephone wire have already been installed. Additional equipment is being provided as required.

An adequate communication service is vital to the defense program and telephone forces have been engaged for months in planning and installing the service to meet the maximum needs of government and industry for both local and long distance telephone service.

Telephone men and women are now better equipped and trained than ever before to do the big job ahead of them. They go forward confident of their ability to maintain the service at its present high standard of efficiency and dependability.

My Column

Cpl. Whyte Whitaker Jr.

There is one song that is very dear to the men of the 31st (Dixie) Division. This song is known by heart by most of the men and is sung by them whenever a crowd gets together, when they are working or marching. When a band or orchestra strikes up this piece a prolonged applause of hand clapping and cheers follow. There is a tremendous amount of sentiment and tradition connected with it. Yes, we like all true Southerners, are very fond of this beloved song—"Dixie."

WEEK'S STAY IN CAMP HOSPITAL

Last Monday this writer made "Sick Call" at the regimental dispensary. One doctor, there are three at this aid station, examined me and saw fit to send me to the Camp Hospital. I had a cold and was running fever—regular old flu—I've forgotten the medical term he used. The ambulance left this aid station something after 6:30 and I arrived at the hospital in several minutes.

At the receiving center several file copies were made. Many questions were asked and signatures required. Finally I was sent to section C ward nine—there are 72 wards with accommodations for 38 men each. This gives you a total of 2,736 beds and others can be put in if necessary. These figures are unofficial and could be more or less.

After reaching the ward I was given a pair of pajamas and fresh bedding. The nurse immediately took my temperature and gave the necessary medicine. Thus my first night faded out with the lights at nine o'clock.

The following morning we were fed in bed, that is, the new patients that had not received their red pants and jackets. The men who were nearly well went to the hospital cafetera. Breakfast was served promptly at 6:30.

Hortly after breakfast the nurse made her periodical check-up taking our temperature, counting our pulse beat, giving cough medicine, nose-drops and other medicine necessary. This check-up is made four times per day and one time before bedtime. Then came the medical officer who made his examination and filled out certain necessary papers.

Cards, checkers, Chinese checkers, papers, magazines and many other forms of entertainment are furnished to the sick ones. Your time is spent very enjoyably for there is always someone out of the bunch that has a sparkle of humor about him.

After two days I was given my red pants and jacket. This allowed me to go to the hospital post exchange and about the hospital area. With your red clothing comes a little work. May be the first day you help three more sweep the floor or mop it. The last two days I remained in the hospital I served as K. P. (dish washer) with three other fellows. They make us do this for two reasons: To see if we can "take it" and to cut down the need of several ward boys.

Saturday I was dismissed, a lot of red tape was conected with it and was carried back to the regimental dispensary where I signed in and reported back to the battery street.

I have often wondered about an army hospital and I was glad to see for myself how it functioned. So mothers, who have sons in the army, you need not worry when they become sick for they get the best of medical attention. Even there, the nurses and 2nd Lieutenants they are sweet.

Charlie Gaston, Walter B. Abel, Rube James, Sidney Jackson left camp dressed in their Sunday finery for a trip. They departed with good intentions of catching a vertebrate animal living only in water, and having gills, fins and long, often scale-covered body ending in a broad tail fin. My My guess is, since Charlie Gaston went along, they caught nothing LESS than a fabled marine creature having the upper part like a woman and the lower part like a fish.

Five of our men left for home this week-end to get some of Mama's good cooking. One finally gets tired of army chow, especially if it is prepared by Pat Austin. Namely these men were: PFC Garland C. I don't know how Private Lloyd Turner made such a pleasing connection in Tallahassee, enroute back to camp after taking his leave home. He's got a picture of her and unless the camera did a little, well shall we say flattering, he's got something there.

GRENADA'S OLDEST DAIRY CHANGING HANDS

For the past 20 years we have tried to serve the good people of Grenada a high grade dairy product at popular prices, with the best service that we could give but we have decided to retire from the active operation of our dairy so have sold to the Frankraft Farms our dairy business.

These gentlemen, Mr. J. H. Kraft, of Chicago, (Kraft Cheese Co.) and Mr. Geo. F. Kraft, of Grenada, will commence operation of this business on May 1st.

The Kraft farm about 5 miles north of Grenada on Highway 51 is indeed a show place and modern in every respect, and from this farm you may be able to continue to get the very highest quality dairy products delivered to you daily at your home or place of business. Milk produced at this farm will be of the highest quality from fine highly fested Jerseys.

We feel sure that the quality of milk and dairy products that you will receive will be by far the finest that you have been able to obtain in Grenada for products of this type have not been available heretofore.

This farm is modern in every way and only under most rigid sanitary conditions will your milk be produced.

We want to express to our many friends our sincere appreciation of your fine business and friendship that we have enjoyed through these many years and to say to you that we shall still retain an interest in this fine dairy and want to solicit your continued patronage and support.

We would like to extend an invitation to come to the Kraft big opening party Saturday afternood 2 till 4 p. m. and see this farm and the conditions under which your milk supply will come to you. This is most important.

Again saying thanks for your past business and soliciting your continued patronage.

Sincerely your friends,
Talbert and Childers Dairy

After my right hand recovered from the hearty shake of Frank Lawrence I credited him with $1.50.

The news may be gloomy but always remember this: the power that controls the seas cannot be defeated. The English civilians have shown that they can "take it." There is no military advantage in destroying homes and in killing women, children and old men, so long as these civilians can courageously erect the Union Jack upon the ruins.

What's behind it?

The most amazing performance ever built into a lowest-price car—and one pint of gas will prove it to you!

NASH CELEBRATES BEST BUSINESS IN 25 YEARS

The best business in the company's 25 year history and the sweeping public approval of a new automobile was celebrated at a "Victory Dinner" in Memphis at Peabody Hotel, Tuesday, April 22 by Nash dealers from this area, according to Mr. W. P. Moss, head of Moss Brothers Motor Co., local Nash retailer, who was one of those honored at the dinner for outstanding sales work.

The dinner, which was attended by Nash factory officials, was a testimonial to the company's dealers, who set a new all-time sales record during the first quarter by selling more than 25,000 Nash cars, easily topping the best previous record, set in 1929, Mr. Moss said.

Mr. Moss declared that in one sense the Victory celebrations, being held in 22 U. S. cities, are testimonial dinners to an automobile that has achieved a ranking position in the industry in just a few short months.

"The company worked three years planning and engineering the new Nash Ambassador '600' and spent $7,000,000 getting it ready for the public," he said. "Introduced only last fall it is now getting the best reception an entirely new car has gotten in years.

"This is not too surprising to us, since the public has been waiting for an automobile that would go over the size, performance and beauty that the great American automobile industry has been providing plus the kind of fuel economy that was demanded and we believe that our current sales records prove that the '600' is being widely accepted as the answer."

GARDEN CLUB MEETS

The Garden Club held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. A. W. Stokes April 17th with Mrs. Sam Simmons Sr. prasiding. During the regular session plans were discussed for the annual flower show to be held in May, the date to be announced later. Mrs. Ethel K. Thiel then had charge of the program for the afternoon, Mrs. Jay Gore gave an interesting paper on "Planting for Cut Flowers" followed by Mrs. J. B. Perry who told of "a simplified schedule" which was most instructive. In the judging of specimen iris brought by club members, Mrs. J. B. Perry Sr. was awarded the best and was presented a package of the new Burpee cherry nasturshium seed. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Stokes' flower garden was admired and a pilgrimage of the following flower gardens was made: Mrs. W. E. Jackson, Misses Cuff and Mrs. Josie Hill, all of which were greatly enjoyed by the club.—Press Chairman.

You had better go out to Gore Springs Friday night and hear the next governor of Mississippi, Tom Bailey, of Meridian. North Mississippi people, holding the greatest voting power, are tired of giving all important offices to the pine rooters of South Mississippi.

We sincerely regret that it was impossible to get a picture, any ways complete, of the Holcomb graduates. We wish them the best of luck any way.

CONSISTENT not sporadic advertising is the advertising that pays dividends. Ministers preach to a fixed aduience; newspapers preach to a moving throng. We always advise an advertiser to spend the amount, be it great or small, over a long period, instead of spending it on one big ad. Unless, of course, he has some particular bargains, good only a limited period, to offer. Eli Whitaker has run an ad in EVERY issue of the GCW. He may not be able to put his finger on a single instance where the ad was beneficial, but the iteration and reiteration of "Call Ten For Coal" finally sinks into the readers' mind.

And, by the way, give the old lady a break. She writes up many of the weddings, announcements, etc. Then why not let her order your engraved announcements, etc., especially when you can obtain them through her at, or lower than the cost elsewhere. Give her a break. She should be able to earn enough commission from this source to pay her church dues and buy the old man a new tie now and then. Think it over. Look over your supply of engraved calling cards. Give the old lady a break.
